

Biographical Summary – Catherine Sheehan Bruno

Catherine Sheehan Bruno, Esq. is an attorney with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) where, since 2009, her positions have included Special Assistant to the General Counsel, Acting Chief of Staff to the General Counsel, and Special Assistant in the Office of Integrity and Compliance. From 1996 to 2002, Ms. Bruno prosecuted cases as an Assistant United States Attorney in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Columbia, including domestic violence, arson, wire fraud, and gun trafficking conspiracies. From 2002 to 2009, Ms. Bruno served as an Investigative Counsel and a Deputy Assistant Inspector General with the United States Department of Justice (DOJ) Office of the Inspector General. In that capacity, she investigated allegations of waste, fraud and abuse within the DOJ. A life-long DC resident, Ms. Bruno received a Bachelor of Arts in political science, with honors, from Wellesley College in 1991. As a sophomore in college, Ms. Bruno was selected to represent DC as a Harry S. Truman scholar. In 1995, Ms. Bruno graduated with highest honors from Boston College Law School, where she held the position of editor on the Boston College Law Review. Following law school, Ms. Bruno clerked for the Honorable Gilbert Merritt, Chief Judge of the US Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit.